

Cast Complete For Melodrama

Cast for "Pure as the Driven Snow" or "A Working Girl's Secret," a comedy "melodrama" by Paul Loomis, has been revealed by Jane Arndal, who, with Ray Mohr, is co-director for this forthcoming dramatic production.

Cast of the melodrama includes Howard Rand as Leander Leogeloff, the brave and manly-looking hero, and Grace Hartman asomed her, and Grace Hartman as Purity Dean, the chaste and chaste young heroine. Appearing as Jonathan Logan, proprietor of "Hiland Inn," will be Harold Wieske, while Phyllis Volmer will play the part of Zannah, John-Schar's wife.

Mordimer Forthingham, the villain, will be portrayed by Bill Wierst, and Harold Kruger will enact the part of Jed Lusk. Mordimer's side-kick, Bob Sell will play the role of E. Z. Pickett. Imogene, his sister, will be played by Helen Hiltmeyer.

Ray Snyder will appear as Mrs. Ethelinda Hewitt, a society matron, while Junior Freese will appear as Allison, her selfish young daughter. Also included in the cast of this three-act production will be Sylvia Meyer as Mrs. Edith Howe, Ruth Engelbrecht as Letty Barker, and Marjorie Wuebben as Nettie Hansen.

Wartburg Players have chosen the evenings of Feb. 17 and 18 for their third performance of this school year.

Letter, Chevrons Will Be Awarded By Wartburg Band

Letter awards and a chevron for each additional year will be given to Wartburg college band members of good standing, according to the new band constitution, which will go into effect at the beginning of the second semester.

New riders, first displayed on Dec. 8, will result in improved precision and response of the band, according to Eddie A. Odegaard, director.

Other new equipment recently purchased includes five new uniforms, and new plumes "shakos" and breeches to put the finishing touches to the majorette outfits.

More Than $400 Given For Project

Over four hundred dollars has been contributed to the student body project to date, it was revealed Thursday by Walter Rath, senior and chairman of the project committee. Proceeds now total $391.24, and more is expected.

Although the campaign officially ended with Christmas vacation, money is still coming in as a result of unpaid pledges. The committee estimates that the grand total will reach $450.

Work on the radio station has shown considerable progress in recent weeks. The station has been completed and equipment is in order. Raymond and John, the two operators for the station, stated Thursday that broadcasting will begin as soon as the FM transmitter is received.

"We may resume AM broadcasting around the campus soon, just as we did last spring," added Wilderman.

New Teacher Joins Biology Staff Here

Joining the biology department here at the beginning of the second semester will be an additional teacher, according to information released by Dr. Carl F. Reuss, dean of the faculty.

Frederick Weber Jr., who will receive his master's of science degree from Penn State college at the beginning of this semester, is expected to arrive on campus in about two weeks. He will teach botany and bacteriology and assist in the biology laboratory.

"Mr. Weber's arrival will help to relieve a heavy workload," stated Dr. Reuss.

Half-Million Begin Education Appeal

The Rev. Waldemar C. Langthorn, development director here, and the Rev. M. L. Bombhoff, development director at Wartburg Seminary, talk over some selling points for the 1950 educational ingathering appeal in the American Lutheran church.

What happens when the over half million members of a major church group financially back a single project of their church?

American Lutheran church officials hope to give a favorable answer to this question during the week of June 11 through 18, when the "1950 Ingathering for Education" will be climaxed throughout the church.

Designed primarily as a boost for the development programs of the various ALC colleges and seminaries, the 1950 ingathering was unanimously approved by the 1948 Fremont convention. The convention also named 1950 the "Centennial of Higher Education."

'Blithe Spirit' Smash Hit With Three Top Stars

Last night witnessed the production of the most hilariously funny, most ably directed and most effectively acted play the Wartburg family has had the pleasure to see here in at least three years.

Director Raymond Wilderman and his cast of superb actors presented for the audience all the inimitable charm and humor of Noel Coward's celebrated "Blithe Spirit." There is little to be said that could add to the impression gained by everyone attending last night's performance. Three Merit Awards.

At least three of the actors merit special mention for their stellar performances, even though all of the cast was superior. Veteran actors George Roeder and Ruth Engelbrecht, senior, in the roles of Charles and his first wife Elvira, and newcomer Ann Peters, freshman, as Charles' second wife, Ruth, showed that night that the Wartburg Players have among their ranks talent that could hardly be surpassed.

However, the rest of the cast must also come in for its share of congratulations. Ruth Meyer, sophomore, as Edith, made the most of a relatively small role and came through to some superb scenes. Judy Vogel, junior and old-time of the Wartburg stage, rendered a remarkable interpretation in her role as Madame Arcati. George Uesch, freshman, and Irene Stuenkel, sophomore, were superior in their roles as Dr. and Mrs. Bradman.

Scenery Also Notable. Especially noticeable was the improvement in scenery, designed by Jane Kerkut, senior. It was the most realistic job of stage props and flats seen here in a long time. Productions such as "Blithe Spirit" are a real honor on the record of Mr. Wilderman, uniting four of the best talents in this production. It was a memorable experience, both from the point of view of acting and from that of sheer comedy and enjoyment.

Magazine Contains Article By Bonderud

This month's issue of Modern Pharmacy magazine contains the article "Students Are Customers," written by Omar Bonderud, Wartburg senior and student body president.

Bonderud's article is centered around the Meyer Pharmacy of Waverly, Iowa, one of the proprietors, John and Ed Meyer.

"Students Are Customers" was written last spring for magazine editors and newspaper features.

It was taught by Mrs. Margaret Wolf, journalism instructor at Wartburg.

Ruth Engelbrecht, senior, playing Elvira, the bewitching deceased wife of Charles, and shivers down the spines of students viewing the Wartburg Players production of "Blithe Spirit" last Thursday and Friday in the Little Theater.

Diers Attends Meet

Miss Dorothea Diers, junior, attended the executive committee meeting of the Iowa Commission on Children and Youth in Des Moines on Friday, Jan. 13.

Norheim Calls Square Dance

Activity was high at last Saturday night's all-school square dance in the Knuths gymnasium. Raymond Norheim, history instructor, does the emceeing from the microphone, and Barb Wuerst, Texas Leavelle, Wartburg sophomore, gave out with an old-fashioned band. Sitting one out are Elwyn Hiltner and Ruth Engelbrecht, seniors.

Registrar Reveals Advance Facilities

Facilities for advance second semester registration have been provided for approximately 2000 two-year teachers and two-year business students, according to Miss Mattie K. Barnes, college registrar.

Seniors and two-year teachers may register on Tuesday, Jan. 23, provided that they have seen their advisors for approval of their schedules during the week from Jan. 16 to Jan. 21. Juniors and two-year business students will be permitted to register on Thursday, Jan. 24. They must also see their advisors first.

A list giving the time and place at which advisers are available will be posted on the bulletin board next week.

New Classes Begin

Sunday school classes designed especially for the college student will begin tomorrow in St. Paul's Lutheran church. Topics to be discussed are "Luther's Treatise on Christian Liberty."

The Rev. Dean Kilgus, instructor in speech, will conduct the first class at 9:15 a.m., while the Rev. Dr. W. C. Schaefer, director of Christianity, will teach the 10 a.m. class.

Classes will be held in the church.

Designed primarily as a boost for the development programs of the various ALC colleges and seminaries, the 1950 ingathering was unanimously approved by the 1948 Fremont convention. The convention also named 1950 the "Centennial of Higher Education."

Under the general direction of a steering committee named by the ALC Board of Trustees and Board of Christian Higher Education, the 1950 ingathering has newly-elected secretary of the Board of Christian Higher Education, it is responsible for recommending work, which Dr. Harry Schulz, director of the church's Department of Stewardship and Finance, coordinates the efforts of the development directors, who serve as leaders in the five areas of the ingathering.

In charge of the midwest appeal for funds are the Rev. W. C. Langthorn, Wartburg development director, and the Rev. M. L. Bombhoff, Wartburg development director, at Wartburg Seminary, Dubuque, Iowa. Headquarters are in Mr. Langthorn's home, 1015 E. 1st St., in the hall. Mr. Bombhoff spends several days each week in the Waverly office.

Districts covered in the midwest phase of the ingathering are California, Central, Iowa, Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin and about half of Illinois.

Gifts to Be Provided. Gifts received from people in these districts will be set up in institutions serving the same area. According to the percentage division, Wartburg college will get 57 per cent of all funds received.

Wartburg Seminary 23 per cent. The remaining 20 per cent will go to a general fund for the expenses of the drive and to provide an endowment fund for the entire drive.

Though the over-all goal of the ingathering has been set at about three million dollars, progressive goals have been set up for each institution. Following are the four progressive goals for Wartburg:

1. Chapel and youth wing addition to Luther Hall—$275,000
2. Two units of three-unit dormitory for women—$300,000
3. Commons building—$200,000
4. Landscaping and additional campus improvements—$50,000

Records in Mr. Langthorn's office reveal that in 1945 Wartburg was able to bring its complete enrollment of 1000 students, whereas today, with a constant enrollment of 1000 students, it has 1000 students on campus for only 200 students.

Committee Meet. All district stewardship committees have met with their respective area directors to make plans for the ingathering, according to Mr. Langthorn. Conferences are appointing key men, who will meet on the Wartburg campus Jan. 31. Both campus and Waverly offices are preparing promotional material.

Organized so that every family in the American Lutheran church will be contacted, the drive will send film strips and a motion picture into many congregations.

"We hope that every student will be able to go into his home congregation to tell what the drive means to Wartburg college," said Mr. Langthorn, emphasizing the importance of higher education.

ALC is one of three major Lutheran groups conducting educational drives. The United Lutheran church in America is trying to raise six million dollars, while the Evangelical Lutheran church is aiming at two million.

Helping Hand Needs Tact

Guest Editorial By Paul Webber

In the Iliad, the story of the wrath of Achilles, we find a striking insight into the art of giving and taking advice.

Paris, the Trojan who stole Helen from the Greeks, showed in the battles by which the Greeks sought to gain Helen back that he was not quite so brave as he was daring. During one of the battles he showed himself somewhat of a coward by fleeing the battleground under a protective mist supplied by Aphrodite, goddess of love.

Hector, Paris' brother, was a brave warrior and he hated a coward. He was well aware of what his fellow Trojans thought of Paris. Thus, we can imagine what he would have liked to tell his brother after that fleeing of the battleground.

But as he approached the house of Paris, he said to himself, "If I tell Paris that he went away from the battle because he was afraid, I should offend him and do no good. I will try another way."

And when he saw Paris he said, "O Paris, is it right that you should turn aside and not fight in the battle because you are angry with your countrymen?"

What a difference between this statement and what he might have said, "O Paris, is it right that you should turn aside and not fight because you aren't man enough to face danger?"

All of us at Wartburg make mistakes, many of them just as cowardly as the mistake that Paris had made. Mistakes come naturally to man—we do not need an education to acquire the ability to make them.

But just as we are born with the ability to make mistakes, we are also born with the ability to make them in a highly irrational and untactical manner. How regrettable it is that there are so few Hectors in the world around us to deal with human mistakes and shortcomings in a manner that will encourage their correction.

We see the lazy student, the conceited student, the bookworm student, the indolent student, the untidy student. The natural reaction to these is "What fools!" But how seldom do we go to the trouble of encouraging and recommending in a tactful way.

When we stop to think, the way in which we condemn our fellow humans in the light of their shortcomings is truly astounding. Our excuse is that anything we might say to the individual in question would do no good and might cause badly hurt feelings.

Yet, in the Iliad, after Hector had spoken, Paris prepared himself for battle.

A helping hand may be all that is needed to cure those who know of their shortcomings. But a helping hand is not a thing and, to wield it is not easy without careful thought.

How We Blundered

I suppose that many people have wondered during the past four years how America ever landed in the uncomfortable bigness position where she found herself at the end of the war. How did it happen that Russia was left in possession of the largest part of Germany, including all of the territory surrounding Berlin? How did it happen that almost all of the Balkan states are today puppets of the Kremlin?

Major Hanson W. Baldwin, military editor of the New York Times, explains the reasons for the present situation very ably in one of his recent articles in the Atlantic Monthly, entitled "Our Worst Blunders of the War." According to Baldwin, the whole question may be summed up by saying that, during the hectic years from 1942-45, America over-emphasized the importance of winning the peace and completely ignored the necessity of winning the war.

Roosevelt, in his complete idealistic trust in human nature, regarded Stalin as a "cool fellow at heart" and never became aware of the dictator's imperialistic ambitions. Churchill, on the other hand, recognized Stalin for what he was as early as 1944. It was during that year, at the Casablanca and Quebec conferences, that the British premier actually advised an invasion of the Balkans from beachheads on the Rho-Rod coast of Yugoslavia.

The purpose of such an invasion would have been to catch the Germans in the back while occupying all the same time that a strategically potent position in after-the-war bargaining sessions. Churchill, however, was overruled and the militarily more expedient plan of invasion in Italy and Germany was chosen. Most military leaders recognize today that Churchill's plan would have deprived the Russians of much of their later advantage in deciding upon issues of world peace.

This failure to recognize the political disadvantages of our plan of invasion, however satisfactory it may have been otherwise, is largely to be blamed for the present unfavorable position. Because American statesmen failed to see that winning the peace is just as important, if not more so, than winning the war, we are today faced with a problem which we could easily have avoided, had we listened to Churchill's clairvoyant estimation of Stalin's postwar intentions.

Students Amaze Him

Miller Makes Music

By Ed Winter

"It is amazing how students find time to study and to practice their music with all the extracurricular activities that are going on around here," remarked Donald Miller, new voice instructor here since last September.

Hailing from a farm in the central part of Illinois, near Carlinville, Mr. Miller, soon after his arrival, placed special emphasis on the last word "to make music."

Mr. Miller, who began his first teaching position here, likes Wartburg especially because of the cooperation among faculty members and between faculty and students. He added with regret that there is a lot of talent on campus that is going to waste.

Interest Deep-Seated

His interest in music goes back as far as he can remember, and from there on his mother takes over. She tells him that as soon as he was big enough to reach the piano, he would turn it on and listen to music. This was the beginning of his career in music.

While attending Illinois Wesleyan University in Bloomington, Ill., where he received a prize scholarship in music, he participated in the opera "Othello" by J. V. Gilbert and Sullivan, and "Marius" by F. W. Halévy. He is also the tenor solo in Handel's "Messiah."

Majoring in music, he received his bachelor of music degree in 1947 and was awarded a teaching fellowship in music. He is now in the department of his alma mater, teaching a class in conducting and giving private voice lessons.

Absorbed by Wrestling. "I was greatly absorbed as I saw the first wrestling match in my life here between Grinnell and Wartburg," said Mr. Miller.

He especially liked the large score our team ran up against Grinnell, Miller, who says he is just a "sports spectator," also enjoys basketball and football games.

Besides teaching two voice classes and giving numerous private lessons, he is busy preparing for his next recital, which will be given in the school auditorium on Sunday, Feb. 5.

"My plan for the future," he concluded, "is to continue in the work in which I am engaged at present."

It does not come through before the present supply is exhausted, other sources of supply have been contacted, and delivery in some quantity or another is expected from at least one of them.

Waverly High Two

Waverly High school is faced with a similar situation and may have to close down if coal does not arrive soon.

Back in 1947, according to Mr. Pries, a coal strike forced Wartburg to close her doors for a week and issue an interrupted vacation. If worst comes to worst, they may repeat it in 1950.

Students should start building traps and bus reservations for home. Students who are not sure that the coal problem will be replenished soon and normalcy will keep operating as normal.

Years ago Pipe Dreams began to think about leaving a diary, but the prospect of having to be regular in recording all the interesting activities in one's life was too much. Then an optimist came up with the idea that recording interesting or words reminding came up every day.

At first Pipe Dreams doubted the advisability of keeping a diary. Now, after doing so for a week, it will do. However, here's one week:

SATURDAY—The necessity of changing 20 pipes (not one for Christmas) presented itself as the Dreamer sat up musing a combination headache and cold. Decided to put night pipes away until spring; cleaned only 12.

SUNDAY—Deck dinners prove enjoyable especially when you don't have to toss out a buck apiece for them. To those gallant Waverly people who invite Wartburgers in from time to time—Thanks.

MONDAY—Student Senate couldn't adjourn because of lack of cash. Between "The Spirit" and the institution of marriage, quorums can be hard to make.

TUESDAY—Coal shortage makes Grossman hail a rather cold place. Some fellows remarked that they were glad the vestibule of Wartburg hall was still warm.

WEDNESDAY—Water all over post office area from broken carbonator in Den. So we drink coffee again.

THURSDAY—Spent 10 minutes enjoying new furniture in Grossman lounge that devolved better not stop class.

FRIDAY—"Blitz Spirit" never better than expected. Saw this play last summer, put on by semi-professional group, which might take tips from Wartburg in matter of stage properties.

SATURDAY—Slept late this morning. Hope to get up in time to read today's TRUMPET.

From Our Readers

Dear Editor:

The opinions expressed in this letter are a compilation of various comments expressed by Wartburg Knights after reading "From Our Readers" in the Jan. 7 issue of the Trumpet.

How do 28 North Hall Ambassadors wish to create a Wartburg school spirit by saying some rather mean cracks about the Grossmen's School spirit should be cooperation at its highest, not mere quibbling about minor incidents.

By the way, the Knights enjoy hearing ANYONE serenade them, whether it be the Grossmenites or the Ambassadors. No preference has been made by the Knights as to whose harmonious they prefer to hear. They don't care who started it, but they do like it.

Perhaps the Knights need to be reminded that such "joshing" statements as have been made by them about each other are bad feelings. It was OK for a while, but how about letting up, shaking hands about the matter and getting the civil war over?

WU Spills Cold Knights, 63-49

By Charles Lutz
Maintaining their home floor jinx over Wartburg, Upper Iowa University poured it on in the last half to down the Peacocks 63-49 at Fayette last night. The defeat gave Wartburg a 1-2 record in the conference.

Barely managing a tie at half-time, the cold Knights slipped behind rapidly in the second period. After Miller, Spier and Olson found out near the middle of the first half, the Peacocks pushed in a succession of lay-ups to see the conference change.

After Upper Iowa had taken an early 4-0 lead, the Axmen showed their only real spirit of the night in pushing to a 16-15 margin. Wartburg kept hold on for the knotted 22 count at intermission.

Walton's rebounding under his own basket and Kelly's blazing efforts credited the pair with 40 of the Peacocks' points. Upper Iowa connected for 36% from the floor.

Steinhauer topped Wartburg scoring for the second successive time, receiving 11 points. Spier returned some of his old form as he hit for 10 counters. As a unit the Knights made slightly less than 28% of their shots. Olson played his usual outstanding defensive game.

In the preliminary the Wartburg Squares slipped by Upper Iowa, 46-43.

Knights Cagers End Bad Streak With 55-38 Win Over Beavers

By Norm Fictel
Coach Al Bundgaard's cagers snapped out of a six-game losing streak on their road trip last week by winning over Buena Vista 55-38. It was the same Buena Vista which last Monday gave Laker a good run for its money before succumbing, 73 to 60.

Knights had things pretty much their own way throughout the game, taking the lead after the first few minutes of play and building it up to a 22 to 9 margin before the Beavers could get rolling.

From the beginning the Beavers couldn't penetrate the Knights' defense and had to shoot overhead, where superior rebounding by the taller Knights gained control of the backboards.

"Lefty" Fritz Steinhauer got 14 points on four buckets and six free throws to lead the Orange and Black scoring, closely followed by Paul Bruns with 12 and Art Miller with 11.

'Fritz' Steinhauer Named Top Athlete For BV Conference

By Fred Stobers
Because of his terrific rebound, in the Iowa trip victory with the Buena Vista Beavers last Saturday evening, "Fritz" Steinhauer, sophomore from Madison, Wis., was selected All-Iowa of the Week by the "W" Club lettermen.

Buena Vista's game seemed almost an anniversary of the one Steinhauer because he earned his appointment to the Wartburg first ten last year in a similar situation. In last year's game he was the first class with the Beavers. In this year's tilt he replaced the injured Jim Keller and picked up 7 points, thus adding his share to the 35-47 Wartburg victory.

From this time on, he played regularly with the Axmen and was named captain against the William Penn Quakers and the Luther Norsemen.

Stobers, a 165-pound athlete graduated from Wisconsin high school, Madison, Wis. During his years at Wisconsin he earned letters in football and basketball, and in his senior year he was named all-conference center. Sports, however, were not the only outside activity of "Lefty" Steinhauer because he also played a trumpet in the high school band and orchestra.

Unlike most athletes, Steinhauer is majoring in business administration. After completing four years at Wartburg, he plans to enter his father's business, the Madison Dairy and Produce company.

Organizing Tourney Business Of WAA

Organizing of basketball tournaments will be the main business when the Women's Athletic Association meets Tuesday, Jan. 17, at 7:30 p.m. in the Knights gymnasium, as announced by Mary Ann Revels, sponsor and president of the group.

Captains of the various teams are as follows:

Walt House—L. S. Soud Annex—Marjorie Nash, freshman, off-campus team composed of Waverly students and Short Annex, Carol Schaefer, sophomore, Becker.

Annex I—Jeanette Larson, sophomore, first floor, Rosemarie Geyer, freshman, second floor, Roberta Kamper, sophomore, third floor, June Schuttler, freshman, and fourth floor, Elaine Reinking, sophomore.

All captains are urged to have their teams on hand at this meeting, so that tournaments can be organized, as they will start shortly after the beginning of second semester, stated Mary Ann. The meeting will be followed by basketball practice.

From The Sidelines

By the Spectator
Last Saturday Wartburg cagers broke their six-game losing streak by beating Buena Vista a 35-47 defeat. Their trip westward to LeMars and Storm Lake ended in a split, one loss to Wartburg and one win over Buena Vista.

It seems that Coach Bundgaard ended the basketball team on the trip. Between the two contests, Norm Fictel and Jim Keller became knotty clumps at the home of their hosts, a Mr. and Mrs. Peterson at LeMars. Mrs. Peterson played with them all Saturday morning, and when Mr. Peterson came home at noon, he took her place and played with them the rest of the day there, and Jim and Norm are looking forward to the day when they can again challenge their hospitable hosts.

Ax Builds From Bottom.
As Bundgaard would probably answer the question "How would you build a basketball team?" by saying, "The same way you build a skyscraper—from the bottom up."

Ax has on his varsity squad freshmen whom he will develop into the nucleus of his future teams here at Wartburg. Three talented freshmen are on this year's varsity—Bud Zwany from Waverly, Bob Lynne, who hails from the same town as Jim Keller, Lamsdown, N. D., and John Kurtt from Denver, the kingpin of last year's Denver high school team.

Hanus Joins Wrestlers.
Fay Hanus has entered the ranks of the wrestlers again. His entrance will strengthen the heavyweights of Coach Nelson's grapplers. Hanus will not enter the ring tonight, but fans will probably be seeing him soon.

"Fat Boy" Wolfram is having trouble reducing to the 155-pound class and would welcome any special weight reducing exercises the Wartburg Knights might have up their sleeve.

'B' Squad Divides Tilts Re-Scheduled With Britt, ISTC

Wartburg's two basketball games with Luther college of Decatur have been re-scheduled, according to word this week from Al Bundgaard, cage mentor for the Knights.

Games between the Norsemen and Knights originally scheduled for Jan. 20 in the Knights gymnasium has been changed to Jan. 14 at Luther. Game scheduled at Luther for Feb. 14 here at Wartburg.

After reading by a night 7 points at intermission, Coach Oppermann's boys turned on the heat in the last half and ran away with Britt junior college 53-33 Wednesday night. Adix rimmed 17 to pace the Squares again while Steinhauer's 15 counters gave him a nice second in the scoring column.

Coach "Burdie" literally swept the bench in the second half, pouring 26 men into the onslaught.

'Sportsman's Night' Benefit Set

"Sportsman's Night" will be held on the evening of Feb. 1 in the Knights gymnasium as a benefit for the 1950 March of Dimes, according to an announcement yesterday by H. C. Engelbrecht, public relations director of the college.

Benefit will be sponsored jointly by the Bremer county and Waverly infantile paralysis foundations and all proceeds will be sent to the March of Dimes.

Entertainment for the evening will consist of demonstrations of basketball, wrestling, pistol shooting and many other varied phases of sports.

Persons attending the "Sportsman's Night" program will not be asked admission, but may donate to the March of Dimes at the door.

Women's Athletic association has voted to postpone its meeting night from Feb. 1 to that the benefit may use the Knights gymnasium.

Miss Phipps Speaker

Miss Delores Phipps, former Wartburg, will be the speaker when the Phobos parish workers' group, meet this Wednesday, Jan. 18, in Wartburg hall lounge at 7:15 p.m., as announced by Donna Jean Weigum, sophomore and president of the group.

Miss Phipps will speak on her two years' experience as parish worker in Houston, Tex. She is now completing a course in kindergarten at Iowa State Teachers college, Cedar Falls.

Grossmann Lounge Regulations Told

Rules for the use of the newly remodeled Grossmann hall lounge and kitchenette were released this week by Art Meyer, junior and president of the dormitory council.

Lounge is open to all Grossmann students at any time. Outdoors wishing to make use of it are requested to file an application with the lounge committee at least one week prior to the date of use. Keys to the kitchenette are available from Mrs. David Scholtz, Grossmann hall housemother, or from the Rev. Dean Kilgust, dormitory supervisor.

Kitchenette will be opened for groups of four or more and may be used for the preparation of lunches only. All outside groups are asked to waste both lounge and kitchenette by 11 p.m. The lounge committee will take a free will offering to defray expenses and will levy a breakage fee for all articles broken.
